My name is Philip Brett Batson (known as Brett), trading as PBB-Proofreading, and I provide a professional, yet friendly and affordable English language copy editing and proofreading service. I have a joint honours degree in Botany and Zoology as well as many years of experience in the areas highlighted above from working in private industry or through extracurricular activities. I can provide that final quality check you need prior to publishing/submission, whether this is for your book, brochure, marketing material, article, journal submission, college paper, research paper, thesis, dissertation, cover letter, email, CV/résumé, university application, personal statement, teaching material (KS1/KS2) or web site content. I pride myself on always being able to deliver quality work, on time, and to budget, whilst also providing a fast turnaround if required. I can work on paper or online (MS Word, PDF) and am fully conversant with industry-standard markup language (BSI 5261 in the UK).

I voluntarily abide by the Society for Editors and Proofreaders' code of practice. This is your assurance of receiving a professional quality service based on established best practice. This covers good communications between you as client and me as the supplier, establishing a clear brief, agreeing deadlines, agreeing a budget, with the expectation of high quality workmanship and a good return on your investment.

Here is what one or two people have said about my work:

"Brett's work was outstanding from start to finish. His estimate was reasonable, he was quick to understand the requirements and very quick to complete it to a high standard. Responsive too when further edits were required, all aligned to his standard pricing. When clarification of the more obscure content was needed he laid this out perfectly for us in email and on the page for review. As well as the text, he formatted the document exactly to our specification. It was a pleasure working with him and I hope to use his services again." Maritime Resolve

"I endorse Brett for Editing and Proofreading. He done a very professional job on the dissertation he had to proofread and edit. I would recommend to other people requiring this type of service and I would most certainly use him again." Student

"Brett helped me with two academic essays and I found his work to be very professional, with the ability to work under pressure to tight deadlines. As I am not a native English speaker I found his comments and suggestions for improving the readability of my English very helpful. I would recommend him for anyone seeking a professional proofreader." Rogério Silva - Student

"Brett was an absolute dream to work with. Everything from his attention to detail to his prompt communication resulted in a significant leap in quality for a project we had been working on for some time. Brett covered a number of different aspects, including grammatical errors, design irregularities, and suggesting possible areas for improvement. For these reasons, we will certainly be returning to PBB for future projects, and in turn, I would highly recommend him to anyone looking for a speedy, yet highly professional service." Gianluca Iorizzo - Marketing Executive
